FREAT SIGNIFICANCE TO WAR NEWS SUMMARY SURRENDER OF GALI-CIAN FORT.

NO MOVE IN BALKANS

Balkan States Are Said To Be No Nearer Intervention in Conflict Than Before Dardanelles Attack.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Petrograd, March 23.—The highest mportance is attached to the fall of sysl by the Novoe Vremya. ing the surrender of the Galicortress to the fall of Metz during Franco-Prussian war, and the capitulation of Port Arthur in the Russian Japanese war, the paper states that the last obstacle has now been removed to the Russian advance in Galicia and to the heart of the Car-removed to the Russian advance in Galicia and to the heart of the Carpathians.

"Thus is decided the fate of the whole Hapsburg empire and consequently that of her ally, Germany," the Novoe Vremya continues. "There is nothing now to prevent the advance of Russian armies' direct to Uzsok and Lupkow passes."

The Russian authorities have received information to the effect that the defenses of Przemysl are in good condition notwithstanding the long siege, and capable of being put into working order immediately. Six hundred guns of the newest type were found in the fortress.

Expect Early Advance.

London, March 23.—The fall of Przemysl is characterized here as the throwing down of the last bar of the gatteway into Hungary, and an early Russian advance in that direction is anticipated in England. The German press praises warmly the gallantry of the defenders of the fortress, while at the same time it does not attempt to minimize the effects of its surrender and expresses uneasiness concerning the result of the long eastern battle front of the Teutonic allies.

Dardanelles Forts Hold.

The latest authentic information from the Dardanelles state positively that only the secondary defenses of the straits have suffered from the bombardinent of the allied feet; the other forts in the narrows are intact. present status of the diplomatic situation in the near east, which indicates that the Balkan states are no nearer intervention in the quarrel than they were when the battleships of the allies first appeared off the Dardanelles. In spite of the optimistic tone of the Greek press, it is not generally believed in London that the entente powers have made any further advances to the new Greek cabinet, while in Grecian circles there is growing an uneasy feeling that Bulgaria may again assert her primacy in Balkan affairs by taking the first step toward active participation in the struggle.

Interest in the blockade centers to-day in the attacks of German aerophanes on Dutch cargo ships, one of which flew the flag of the commission of Belgian relief. Holland is awaiting information from Berlin before making a formal protest in this connection.

ESCRIBES A VISIT OF GERMAN EMPEROR

Correspondent Tells of Kalser's Appearance Before Troops at Lodz Recently,

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 23.—Interesting letters are appearing in the German newspapers describing a recent visit of the German Emperor to Lodz. It is the first time since 1656 that a Hohenzollern has entered Russia as an enemy.

The latest Russian invasion of Germany is said in Berlin to have met the same fate as its predecessors. Today's official German communication contains the announcement that the Russian forces which occupied Memel at the northern end of East-Prussia have been driven back and that German troops pursuing them across the the border have captured the Russian town of Krottingen.

The Russians are still on the offensive in Northern Poland's but German war office asserts they have been driven back in every instance.

The initiative in France and Belgium yesterday was chiefly left to the already of the allies attacked Ostend, and German aeroplanes dropped bombs on Rheims. The German statement says that a French aviator was shot down near Verdun and that another French machine was forced to descend near Fireburg.

The opinion is expressed by Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of British forces in the field, that the war will not be long in duration. It an interview with a correspondent, he said that spring promises well for the allies, and that he believes the Germans are fearing the lack of ammunition.

Italy is preparing rapidly for what-mans are fearing the lack of ammunition.

Italy is preparing rapidly for whatever may result from the negotiations with Austria, now represented as having reached an important stage. A royal decree is soon to be signed establishing rules designed to suppressiples. Women are to be put to work in the places of men in case of mobilization of the army.

An official Russian communication describes the battle which preceded the fall of Przemysl. It is said the troops left the eastern fortress in final effort to break through the Russian line at any risk, but were defeated quickly. Berlin newspapers do not believe the Russian victory will be of great influence on the campaign as a whole, although the fall of the city is described as a "painful blow" to the Austro-German right wing.

Unfavorable weather still prevailed at the Dardanelles yesterday and no further, attacks on Turkish fortifications were attempted. The warships of the allies' fleet did not leave their anchorage.

Case of Mobilization.

[Est associated parss.]

Rome, via Paris, March 23.—A movement is under way in Italy to substitute women for men in the work of industry and commerce in case of a complete mobilization. It is proposed the women be paid the same wages as now received by male workers with the provision that part of it be turned over to families of mencalled to the colors. The plan provides that the female workers shall surrender their posts to the soldiers when they are disbanded. An office has been opened where women may register and express an opinion as to what work they are best able to do in case of need.

CONTRABAND FOUND ON SHIP AT NAPLES

Naples, via Paris, March 23.—Contraband ammunition was found aboard the steamer Finland by customs officials here, according to a report printed in Naples newspapers. It is said that six customs guards are accompanying the steamer to Genoa for a thorough search there, as it is believed the cargo contains more contraband than found here.

The Finland is a steamer of 7.927 tons, which sailed from New York Feb. 27 for Gibraiter, where she arrived March 9 and then cleared for Naples and Genoa.

of the German Emperor to Lodz. It is the irrst time since 1656 that a Hohenzollern has entered Russia as in enemy.

The populace of Lodz was kept absolutely in the dark regarding the visit. The main street, the Petrik caska, now called the Friedrich Strasse, was closed to traffic, and residents were not permitted to open their windows or stand at their copors. The long street swarmed with thidiers and police. Orders were the form the ringing of all the fullers and police. Orders were the form the ringing of all the fullers and police. Assemblyman Prescott is Father o Measure Barring Appointment of Relatives to State

Service. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTA.]

Madison, Wis., March 23.—A bill to prohibit the appointment of relatives in the state service came into the assembly last night through the committee on revision: It is fathered by Assemblyman Prescott of Milwaukee. It provides that no state officer, whether elective or appointive, shall name any relative by blood or marriage to any position or engage such relative in any employment of the state in another department. This would mean that only one person of a family could hold a position in one commission or department. The fine is not less than $250 nor more than $500, and any appointment made in yiolation of this provision shall be void.

EVOLUTION OF JITNEYS
A STORY OF PROGRESS

Kansas City, Mo., March 23.-The evolution of the jitney is a story of itself. Less than two months ago, the first small five passenger touring car made its appearance in Kansas City streets, offering a ride for five cents. Strap hangers swamped the little car. Within a few days fifty small touring cars were in operation over fixed routes taking as much business from the street railway company as the jitneys could handle.

much business from the street railway company as the jitneys could handle.

Then appeared the first automobile with a bus body, with a large carrying capacity. Jitney drivers were quick to see that the increase in carrying capacity was far ahead of the increase in cost of operation. Soon many auto delivery wagons made their appearance with seats on both sides. Instantly they became popular both with the jitney fans and with the drivers. The latter discovered that a light speedy truck stood up better under the wear and tear than the converted pleasure cars. Then, too, the purchaser of a truck ran no risk in his investment should the jitney business prove a failure. They reasoned they would still have a serviceable car for delivery work. A further development of the jitney truck was the scheme of several drivers to use their cars as buses during the rush hours and contract for delivery work for some large firm. Another development has been the number of independent owners who have entered the field with cars "For Hire" for a ten cent fare within a certain area. Some independents also charged ten cuts for a trip from the union station to any hotel and get plenty of business. But the ten cent cars are few and far between. Then there are other cars that merely bear the sign "Anywhere. Rates Reasonable." And they are butting in heavily on the taxicab business.

Another class of jitneys are those who ruse only during the rush hours.

Another class of jitneys are those who run only during the rush hours and during fair weather. So far most of the weather has been decidedly unfavorable for the jitneys but despite this more than 300 cars are in operation with a big increase certain with the coming of spring.

City Will Test Baker Machine for Cleaning Streets Before Mak-

Cleaning Streets Before Making Purchase.

An order has been sent for a new Twentieth Century Baker Pick-Up sweeper by the city council to be used on trial before acceptance and the payment of the purchase price of five hundred dollars. The sweeper which will be tested here will have full equipment, including a two hundred gailon water tank for a sprinking system that is used in front of the revolving broom to prevent the raising of dust.

Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodman was directed by the commission to investigate the qualities of the various street sweepers and the success other muncipalities have had in using them. Two types, the various street sweepers and the success of the low purchase cost and the number of replies received from other cities relating to the success of the Baker sweeper, the city decided to give one a trial. It is figured that the operation of the pick-up sweeper will amount to about $8 per day for operation and the cost of street sweeping with the two brooms and hand work now costs the city about twenty dollars a day.

Besides doing effective work in keeping the streets clean, the guarantee with the Baker sweeper; is that there is practically no dustrales of the water before the brush prevents much dust and the storage bin fits close to the street.

The new sweeper is expected withing a few days. If the machine is purchased it is expected that steps will be taken to remove the telephone poles from the end of the rails. Bill Donovan Shows That he Will Handle the Reigns of the Team This Year.

(By Hal Sheridan.) Sew York, March 23—Whether the Cow York Yankees finish first or eignth in the coming pennant flight, they're going to have something this season they haven't had in years. That is a man directing the playing and who is a real manager and not a mere figure head subject to the whims and notions of owners and small stock-holders who think they know more about the daily grind than he does.

Bill Donovan is a real manager, what he says goes in regard to hiring and firing of players.

This was shown in the Marty Mchale deal. Marty had been used to dealing with the Farrel-Devery crowd and when he wanted to consult about the owners. Bill Donovan was completely ignored.

THE PESSIMISTIC VIEW.

The Wall Street Journal does not The Wall Street Journal does not see the hole in the doughnut yet. It is too conservative. It can not hear the wings of the birds of paradise that are flying with the good times, the full dinner pails and the other wonderful things that the Wilson administration things that the Wilson administration tells us are just at hand. It harks back to the cold, solid truths and stops with a sudden jar all hopes of the optimist who sees the doughnut the hole and the sugar all over the outside. It warns the public against counting its chickens before they are hatched and says that it was rehatched and says that it was remarked by a philosopher of somewhat convivial tendencies that one swallow does not make a limit one tinues indefinitely we shall be hard put to it to pay the principal.

As we are in position to export in quantity, while our foreign competitors are crippled in the matter of imports into America, the trade balance shows favorably. It is true also that a good deal of money will be spent, here which was spent abroad, and that there will be less disposition in our alien population to remit savings to the other side. But this is a temto the other side. But this is a tem-porary condition. The conclusion of dent, for supposing any such advance. The purchasing power of our foreign customers must necessarily be reduced. This simply means that we must sell to them cheaply in order to bring our exports within their reach. This certainly does not mean a higher interest rate and a heavier labor little for pleasure driving, the city

It is entirely probable that paper It is entirely probable that paper of travel and enjoyment by the passion inflation may stimulate prices in some directions, for a time at least, or until the world has realized the extent of the conversion of liquid into fixed captures that due to the rehabilitation of Europe following the ravages of war. Even that would not make us a creditor patient. We are not only countil with a lot of other useless itor nation. We are not only counting them before the eggs are laid and even before we have the hens to lay

THE COST. THE COST.

Regardless of the terrible toll in human lives exacted. Regardless of the sorrow, suffering and poverty of the countries now taking part in the conflict, the monetary cost is something terrific. The Wall Street Journal says that the war debts of the powers actually engaged in fighting now total $10,560,000,000. The annual revenues of those countries (including their colonies and possessions) are off winter flannels vet awhile, even if ing their colonies and possessions) are less than $9,000,000.000. After less than eight months of war, the debts aggregate 26 per cent more than the revenues for a year. The revenues of the whole world are less than $12,000,- powers together a total of $50,000,000 a day. It is expected that with the opening of spring military operations will be on a larger scale. So must the cost be also. But even the present estimate passes human comprehension, for it is at the rate of $18,000,000,000 a year, should the war last that long. We look upon the Panama canal as a mighty work for the world's com-merce. Yet, at present rate of ex-penditure, the god of war could duplicate that work in eight days. His maintenance for three weeks is more than is spent in a year for education in this land of free schools. A year and a half of such war would pay for all our livestock, the products of the farms, the output of the mines, and still leave enough to take up the capitalized valuation of the railroads. talized valuation of the railroads

There is considerable conflict in statistics of the wealth of those nations now at war. But a fair approximation makes their total wealth $365,000,000,000. Before the war began they all were in debt. The total amount now is climbing up to $30,000,000,000. What will it be when the war ends? Should the war be a long one, what Atlas will carry the world on his aboutlers? on his shoulders?

GREAT WORK. "The greatest fund ever raised by a newspaper in any part of the world for charitable purposes is credited to the London Times. Soon after the war began the old 'Thunderer' announced that it would receive subscriptions for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers, and with the and wounded soldiers, and with the result that a total of over. $5,000,000 was raised—the largest fund by more than two-thirds ever gotten together by a daily newspaper. The London Telegraph raised a Christmas fund for the Belgians of over $250,000 in cold cash. The noteworthy successes achieved in this manner by the two London dailies is due to considerable extent to the fact that the publications of that city do not attempt to tions of that city do not attempt to raise funds upon slight provocation."

It is gratifying to know that while America has contributed so liberally to the war sufferers, that the same spirit of philanthropy prevails in other lands. The London press is to be congratulated for its very effective work.

While this country is contributing from its abundance, the old world faces loss and poverty which will be felt for many years. The strictest economy is already demanded and every dollar expended for charity means sacrifice. The heart of humanity is very much alike, the world over.

WHY NOT JANESVILLE?

If the state fair is to be moved from Milwaukee—and there is every reason why it should be-why not bring it to Janesville? The argument that the Bower City is at the southern end of the state is not a valid argument. The city is easy of access. with unrivaled railroad facilities. It is in the heart of the agricultural dis-trict and well equipped to take care of the fair.

The grounds are in fine condition, with plenty of available land adjoinng, if more land is needed. It has the best track in the state, and this ought to be some inducement. No half million dollar donation will be necessary to make the fair a success in Janesville, and after it is once es-tablished it ought to be self-support-ing. Why not try it?

Up at Madison in the governor's private office is a colored messenger, Sam Banks. He is most diligent in the discharge of his duties and just at present Sam is earnestly lobbying swallow does not make a drink. Are we not assuming too much from the temporary swelling of our balance of trade arising out of the war? We "Why that man is there," he explains to the men he is seeking to interest thing like $6,000,000,000 of foreign capital invested here. If the war continues indefinitely we shall be hard out for lively morning, he never goes put to it to man the capital invested here. capital invested here. If the war con-tinues indefinitely we shall be hard out for lunch, except sometimes in a put to it to gay the porary condition. The conclusion of peace would make a large and rapid has been picking up quite a bit. Some change. peace would make a large and rapid change.

No doubt we are steadily improving. But we are still a long way from being a "creditor nation." It is lightly assumed that we shall be able to stimulate foreign trade in the lesser nations outside of Europe by the lending of capital. If we have, as seems entirely probable, to devote our spare capital to taking up our own obligations held in Europe, any considerable American investment of this kind is hardly worth extended consideration.

"It was recently assumed by one of reaches the enormous sum of $1,800.

American investment of this kind is hardly worth extended consideration.

"It was recently assumed by one of the official heralds of prosperity from Washington that scarcity of capital and labor after the war would necessarily advance both interest and tweefers. It would certainly reduce the purchasing power of wages; but there is no indication, or even sound precedent, for supposing any such advance. The purchasing power of our foreign figure as a prominent factor.

Our national gold supply today out of $1,890,-100,000, by far the largest in the history of the country. Mrs. Florence Gamble Charged With Using Mails for Fraudulent Purposes, Purposes.

Mrs. Florence Gamble, who resided for the past month on the Manchester road, six miles east of Beloit, is being held at the Madison jail as a federal prisoner on the charge of using the United States mails to defraud.

The woman is alleged to have inserted the following advertisement in the columns of a matrimonial paper called "Cupid's Columns," published in St. Paul, for purposes of fraud carried on through the mails:

"Am sincere and prefer an early marriage. Farmers of the northwestern states or western Canada preferred. Am a widow by death, aged 33, no children, 5-3 tall, weight 165 pounds, brown hair, hazel eyes, kind disposition; will inherit $8.000."

"According to the postal authorities who intercepted the woman's correspondence with those who replied to the advertisemnet, she asked for money to pay her carfare. When six received this she is alleged to have demanded more—constantly putting off her departure for the dape's home. The postal authorities claim to have postitive proof of Mrs. Mamble's guilt, according to Marshal Appleby, who made the arrest.

THE STATE OF THE S BY RUTH SE CAMERON

"I used to think I was different from other girls, but I'm coming to the conclusion that we are all very much alike after all."

So writes a dear little letter friend of mine, in philosophic vein. And now let me tell you something remarkable. She is only sixteen! Just fancy her having reached that conclusion so soon. Why many of us are just beginning to glimpse it ten years later.

The feeling that one is different, that many of one's thoughts and feelings are unique, or at least very rare, is one of the hall marks of youth.

A Unique Experience Almost Impossible.

As one's experience grows broader, and one realizes how many people there are in the world, and how many there have been, one begins to suspect that perhaps among all these there may be some who have had similar experiences. And as one grows still older, one begins to doubt if a unique thought or experience is possible.

One of the experience is possible.

One of the experiences which is most commonly taken for unique by the astonished young person who first undergoes it, is that sensation that suddenly comes over one when one is doing or saying some perfectly simple thing of having done or said just the same thing somewhere, sometime, before. I can remember when I first had these flashes how surprised I was, and how sure that I was having some rare psychic experience.

Was Anyone Ever So Much in Love!

Love is another experience which the young soul thinks is unique to itself. Of course, the young person in love realizes that other people have been in love, but he is sure that they have never felt quite the same as he.

The older one grows, the more one realizes the fundamental similarities of human nature.

one experience which has particularly impressed this on me is this: I see about the foibles of seemone I know personally, and from some unknown of miles away I will receive a letter saying, "You were writing about my neighbor."
So fundamentally similar is human nature.

So fundamentally similar is human nature.

The Society Leader and Her Washerwoman Alike.

Nor are there such wide differences between people of different classes as we are in the habit of thinking. The differences to be sure are there, but I believe with all my heart that they are outweighed by the likenesses.

The society leader thinks of her maid or her washerwoman as creatures of another clay. If the veil could be lifted from her eyes and she could see things just as they are for a moment, I believe she would be startled not by the difference, but by the likeness.

"For the Coionel's Lady and Julia O'Grady

Are sisters under the skin."

Horace Walpole once said: "If angels laugh, how we must divert them." Can't you just imagine angels laughing at our strutting little vanities of class and superiority—we, who probably seem as much alike to them as a flock of sparrows to us.

The differences between the commonest and the most select, the crudest and the most cultured of us, how small they must seem to the Power that is itself so infinitely better than the best. When one thinks of it one feels ready to echo Wordsworth:

"The best of what we do and are to echo Wordsworth:

"The best of what we do and are Just God forgive."

Household Hints.

THE WINTER CLOTHES.

Housewives who wish to pack their winter clothes without fear of moths will profit by the following method:

Spr.y bottom of trunk with kerosene and pour a tablespoonful down each of the four corners. Spread a single newspaper sheet on bottom of the trunk and it is ready for the furs or woolens. Fill trunk, spread a thin paper on top, sprinkle inside of the lid with a little kerosene, and you are insured against moths.

If moths abound about the middle

A SKE OF SEAUTY IS A JOY FRIVER.

OF the season, pour a spoonful of kerosene down each corner as a precaution, and a little on the floor. Moths will not lay eggs where kerosene has been sprinkled.

Men's suits, with a small cotton wad odorized with kerosene in one of the pockets, can be hung in a bag in the open attic and remain intact for half a year.

It is less odorous than gasoline and there is no danger of any trace of a grease spot. This preventive has been used for a decade with the result that not one moth-hole has ever been found nor a moth-seen in an attic where furs, cloaks, suits, overcoats and woolen blankets are stored and hung; nor is any odor perceptible when the winter garments are brought out for use.

MOTHER MCGREW AND HER FAMILY.

Said Mother McGrew, one hot day in July:
"There's a circus I hear in a field right near by.
You childre would all like to see it, I know.
So if you are good we perhaps may all go."

Of course they were perfectly wild with delight, And behaved just as well as they could until night. So right after supper the whole family went With Mother McGrew to the big circus tent.

This was their first circus, so you'll understand The joy that they felt when they heard the brass band; And each animal's eyes almost popped from his head At the acrobats dressed in their bright suits of red.

They laughed at the clown until they could not speak, And the trapeze performers just made them turn weak. And everything moved very nicely along Till the Bumble-Bee started things going all wrong.

The trouble was this: By the side of the Bee Sat a man with a squirming young boy on his knee, I'm sorry to say the Bee's temper was bad, And the sight of the squirming young boy made him mad.

So he bumbled, "Don't crowd," but his voice was so small it's no wonder the boy didn't hear him at all. Then all of a sudden this angry young Bee With all of his might stung the boy on the knee.

The yell of the boy was so brim full of woe That quicker than wink it broke up the whole show. Then Mother McGrew seized that had Bumble-Bee, "You'll go home this minute, and stay there," said she.

"You'll have to be punished severely, that's plain, So you never can go to a circus again." And from that day to this, as far as I know, They do not allow Bumble-Bees at a show.

thought. "My friends know I do not often look like this."

She opened the door to Mrs. Ellson. "I know I am a little early," apologized the lady, "but I rode as far as your gate with the doctor."

I usually am dressed for the afternoon by this time, but/I decided to finish cleaning the bookcase before changing my dress," said Nell, a trifle stiffly as she seated her guest. Mrs. Ellson took in the entire room with a comprehensive sweep of her cold eyes. Nell followed her gaze till it rested on the apron string protruding from behind the bookcase. She flushed and rose to remove the offending garment, trying to laugh over the incident, but there was no amusement in the caller's uncompromising attitude.

"I have tried to get over here to call on you and Miss Rudolph sconer, as you are the two new members of our circle, but the weather has been so fine I have been going with the doctor to make his calls quite frequently. He enjoys having me go so much I really feel that I should do it."

'Naturally,' murmured Nell.

"Naturally, murmured Nell.

"I suppose you see a great deal of Miss Rudolph. Mr. Morton is such an admirer of hers; they are always together on the street, and seem to enjoy each other so much," continued Mrs. Elison.

"Yes," said Nell, flushing and paling by turns, "Miss Rudolph boards just below here, and as they have the same dinner hour naturally walk together. She is acquainted with some intimate friends of ours," she finished bravely, fighting a desire to run away and bang the door behind her.

"That makes it very nice for her," Mrs. Ellson said with emphasis on "her"; "not every stenographer has so handsome a man to walk with every day."

"It makes it nice for all of us," said Nell, knowing by the slight smile on the other's lips that her frantic lying was useless and that the woman knew her dart had gone home.

Nell did not know what she said after that, except that they talked banalities, and it was with intense relief that she closed the door on her caller and sank into a chair and buried her face in her hands.

"It isn't my ilmagination, then," she thought; "people are noticing their being so much together. Oh, this thny village with its idle women with nothing to do but watch the affairs of others. In a city I could

NEW ENGLISH MINES HAVE MANY IMPROVEMENTS
OVER FLOATING TYPES.

Bedinburgh, March 23.—The British
Navy has developed a new type of mine, which according to the Scotsman, marks a new era in this branch of warfare. The German and French floating mines have not presented such a very difficult problem, because it has been comparatively easy to sweep them up, owing to their suspension tackle. The new British mine has no floats and no tackles. It can be ejected from a torpedo tube or incontinently thrown overboard. If desired, it can be set to rest on the sea floor until the minute chosen by those placing it, when it will come up, not to the surface, but to the proper depth at which to meet the rushing bows of a ship.

As soon as the mine, floating free, reaches a certain depth, there is set up a series of movements which put Suddenly he arose and confronted the serene image of the Buddha. For full minute he stood there with his hands clasped, his lips moving as if in prayer. No sound came from them.

The girl remained transfixed, powerless to move. Not until he turned toward her and spoke was the spell broken. Then she came quickly to his side. He had pronounced her name.

"You are about to tell me something, Mr. Brood," she cried in great agitation. "I do not care to listen. I feel that it is something I should not know. Please let me go now. I--

"You don't know what you are saying," he muttered.

"Oh, yes, I do," she cried carnestly, "You invite my opinion; I trust you will accept it for what it is worth. Before you utter another word against Frederic, let me remind you that I have known both of you for a long, long time. In all the years I have been in this house, I have never known you to grant him a tender, loving word. My heart has ached for him. There have been times when I almost hated you. He feels your neglect, your harshness, your-your cruelty. "Cruelty!"

"It is nothing less. You do not like him. I cannot understand why you should treat him as you do. He shrinks from you. Is it right, Mr. Brood, that a son should shrink from his father as dog cringes at the voice of an unkind master? I might be able to understand your attitude toward him if your unkindness was of recent origin,

"Recent origin?" he demanded

"If it had begun with the advent of Mrs. Brood," she explained frankly, undismayed by his scowl. "I do not understand all that has gone before. Is it surprising, Mr. Brood, that your son finds it difficult to love you? Do vou deserve..."

"The time has come for frankness on my part. You set me an example, Lydia. You have the courage of your father. For months I have had it in truth about Frederic, but my courage has always failed me. Perhaps I use the wrong word. It may be something very unlike cowardice that has held me back. I am going to put a direct question to you first of all, and I ask you to answer truthfully. Would you say that Frederic is like—that is, resembles his father?" He was leaning forward, his manner intense.

In God's name, what has he done that you should want to strike him down after all these years? It is in my heart to curse you, but somehow I feel that you are a curse to yourself. Ranjab was holding the curtains aside for her to enter. The tall figure of Frederic loomed up behind her, his dark face glowing in the warm light that came from the room. WHY SO MANY FEEL TIRED.

"Spring fever" usually is the result of sluggish bowels and torpid liver. After months indoors, you are not likely to feel vigorous and sprightly. Foley Cathartic Tablets are "worth their weight in gold" for that rover-full feeling, biliousness, gas on the stomach, bad breath, indigestion or constipation. Their action is quick, comfortable and complete—without hausea or griping. Stout people say they are a blessing.—W. T. Sherer.

partly submerged the temple columns that had stood on high land. The lower half of these columns was greatly altered by the sea and by myriads of little sea creatures that burrowed into the hard marble. As time went on the sinking ceased, and the land actually started to rise again. Today three columns, all that remains of a once beautiful temple, stand high and dry upon the land. Such changes are taking place along many of our sea coasts, but the elevation and depression goes on very slowly. Yet so extensively has this gradual sinking of the land and its re-elevation taken place in the history of the earth that the seas have many times extended over the interior of North America. In fact there are but few points on the continent that have not been submerged at one time or another and many parts of the interior, including Wisconsin, have been covered by water time and time again.

Williamson Submarine Motion Pictures. They have created a veritable sensation with the great theatre-going public and form the greatest triumph which the motion picture industry yet has to its credit. This film brings before the eyes of the general public that fascinating under-ocean life and scenery which has hitherto been revealed only to the photographer can descend deeper than any diver and record for the screen submarine life and activity never before seen by the human eye. Great fields and meadows of coral formations, filled with movement and color by the schools of fish that dart incessantly to and fro, native Bahaman Islanders diving twenty and thirty feet to pick up the penules thrown to them by tourists on the decks of steamers; sharks on the decks of steamers; sharks on the hunt for food, and finally a hairraising fight between a man and a shark thirty feet under water—all these make up a film that for yariety, uniqueness, thrill and sensation has never been equalled.

Our community was shocked on Friday afternoon by the word of the death of Harold Morgan. Two weeks ago he went to St. Louis to consult with his brother, Willis, in regard to his condition and it was supposed that he was getting better when the bursting of an abscess on the bladder brought on a charge for the worse and he scon died. Mr. Morgan was the youngest of the two sons of the late Sylvester Morgan and was born. In April 1856 on the farm which he owned at the time of his death, which his father bought in 1854. The elder brother. Willis Burton, lives in St. Louis. Mr. Morgan's wife, his aged mother and three children, Mrs. Inez Wilbur and Willis Burton of Rock Prairie and Howard S. of Lima survive him. The funeral was held from the home on Sunday at two o'clock in the afternoon and the remains were placed in the family vault in Whitewater.

Horseshoes as Bringers of Luck. Sailors cherish horseshoes as luckbringers, and before the days of dreadnaughts it was Jack's practice to nail a horseshoe upside down on the mast of his ship. Nelson nailed a horseshoe with the points upwards on the mast of the Victory before he took the ship into action at Trafalgar.

business is to loan our own money on farm lands and sell the loans we make. On selling a loan we agree to collect interest and look after it during its life and we strive to do this in such a way that when a loan is paid our customer will appreciate the services we have rendered and buy another. We have been at this for many years, have sold our securities right here for 15 years and have many steady customers. Did you ever hear of any of our customers who has lost a dollar on securities bought from us or who is in any way dissatisfied with them?

Mrs. F. F. Lewis Tells of Visit to Crater Which is Now Displaying Unusual Activity.

A letter from Mrs. F. F. Lewis Hilo, Hawaii, dated March 5th, reads as follows:

"We sailed for this island on March 3rd on the S. S. Matsoma, the largest and best equipped steamer this company has. We came here, in order to see again the volcano Kilama. It is about 225 miles south of Oahul, of which Honolulu is the capital. We left Honolulu at 5:00 p. m., reaching here at 7:00 a. m. The sea was very quiet, so we had a good nights rest. We had to land via a launch sent out from our steamer as the ship is too large for the shallow water, of this harbor. We found autos waiting for us, and a crowd of 100 people from the Matsonia. We had only three in our auto. The driver was a young Frenchman, who claimed to be an American, Perhaps he was. He spoke perfect English but with a foreign accent. He proved to be a charming man who had traveled over the world. He was on his way on a long trip when the war found him in Parls. He had been in Honolulu for three months. We started from Hilo about 9:30 and rode the entire distance in a heavy mist. The mist continued all day, so we did not start, for the crater, which is nine miles from Volcano House, until nearly 4:00 p. m. The most of the crowd got out of their autos and walked over the lava beds to the mouth of the crater, but, we sat in the shelter of our auto until dark, when we walked to the mouth of the crater in the mist, so we could gaze at our leisure at the grand spectacle. The fire is now about 500 feet from the top, much more active than when we saw it two years ago. We stood and looked with awe at the wonderful sight.

We have with us a number of scientific men who are here studying the volcano at this time, because it is unusually active this year. After our dinner a professor from Harvard gave us a lecture of the volcanoes of Hawaii. The ride back to the hotel was weird indeed. There were six to regit autos in our procession, so the road winding through glantic fern trees and lovely flowers on each is deed to the road winding through glan

CUPID ON SKATES

By CECIL GRAHAM.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspa-per Syndicate.) The Cedar river was in prime condition for skating, and the young people for miles around were taking advantage of good ice and moonlight to enjoy the merry winter sport. The river above the dam was like a sheet or glass, and it sparkled like an inlaid floor of dia-

Keeping abreast of the times, the couples were skating the one-step, the hesitation, the fox trot and many other trots they had learned to step off on the dancing floor.

Barbara Hamilton had been invited to join a skating party, and she had accepted the invitation with alacrity. for if there was one thing she had always done well it was to skate. She stood alone near the bank of the river watching the members of her party do all sorts of dance steps she had never even heard of either on the ice or off. She had tried to skate with one or two of the young men, but when they found her starting off in the good oldfashioned gliding motion they were surprised and made apologies and excuses, and did not ask her again.
"Oh, Barbara," cried her hostess stopping in the midst of an intricate one-step variation, "don't you skate?" Barbara forced a laugh. "I have skated all my life, but I've never danced on the ice," she said.

"I'm sorry—so sorry. I never thought to ask you," young Mrs. Holt said. "Perhaps Miss Hamilton would be one of the judges in the competition," suggested the pleasant-faced young man with Mrs. Holt. "Oh, would you, Barbara?" Mrs. Holt asked, quickly.

"If I could, gladly," Barbara replied. "George Mason is to be one," the roung man went on. "May I present him?"

Barbara was left with Mrs. Holt while the young man skated off in search of his friend, the judge of the contest. He soon returned with a quiet-looking man in brown skating costume. George Mason was duly presented and Mrs. Holt and her park ner skated off in another whirl of steps. "I'm afraid I'm a pretty poor selection for judge," said Mason, looking down into Barbara's face. "I abominate all this razzle-dazzle on skates." Barbara gave him such a grateful look that he stepped back in mock fear. "You do?" she cried, laughing. "I do," he nodded. "Shall we skate as we please and defy convention?" he asked. For answer Barbara turned and crossed her arms, giving him her right hand in his right under her left arm and they swayed away together.

As they skated against the cold, sharp wind, getting nearer and nearer the strains of music, their conversation grew less animated. It was enough that they were together in this glorious crisp air on so perfect a night, and neither one seemed to find it necessary to speak.

They were pounced upon veritably by Mrs. Holt and her partner when they skated into the little group near the bank. "Where were you?" Mrs. Holt asked.

in my own mind," the man laughed. "That's not fair," Barbara replied, though she knew well what he meant. After that they gave their attention to the figures and elected the couples who seemed most deserving of the trophies. Mrs. Holt and her young partner were not among the prize winners, for both Barbara and her colleague decided that their steps were too exaggerated for grace.

"And yet I'd like to give them prize," Mason said. "Why?" asked Barbara.

"Because they introduced me to you," he said, shamelessly. "O-h!" Barbara said, comprehensively.

The trophies were presented at the little supper party at the home of Mrs. Holt, and at it Barbara and George Mason sat side by side and talked to no one but each other and thought of no one but each other. All of which was not very polite, but all is fair in some phases of life, and this was one of the phases—it was love.

The Favorite Flower, One reason why violets are the fav. orite flowers of the world is that they belong to sweet woods and dooryard gardens. We can plant, tend and pick them ourselves, make borders for our walks, fringe a brook or star a corner of the lawn with their flecks of deep rich blue. Year after year they will come to remind us of our first planting.—The Craftsman.
